BARCELONA
inspira DNA

Over the next few days, Barcelona will celebrate its local festivity or fiesta major, a time when the soul of the city emerges most clearly and reveals its essence to visitors. But, what is the secret of the fiesta? Well, the only mystery is that wise blend of tradition and modernity, two elements that are ever-present in the lives of Barcelonans, who like to remember their past but also to stay permanently in touch with the world around them and to partake of all the latest, most cutting-edge trends.

Dragons and fire-breathing beasts, dwarfs and giants, human towers and sardana dance groups... All these form part of the traditional side of the great Barcelona festivity, which is, in fact, a compendium of the most outstanding examples of Catalan folklore. But this is not the only face of La Mercè, a celebration that, like the Barcelona people themselves, fuses folklore with modernity. From what is now the traditional projection show on the Façade of the City Hall (dedicated this year to Stockholm, the guest city at La Mercè 2014) to the performances that form part of the Mercè Street Arts Festival, the city is taken over for a few days by modern-day “jugglers” that come here from all over Catalonia and from the four corners of the Earth to present innovative shows that illustrate the new paths currently being blazed in the performing arts.

Music is ubiquitous at La Mercè, with a programme that includes both emerging voices sounds and roots, symphonic and traditional sounds. Do not miss Stockholm Night, organised this year as part of Barcelona Acció Musical (BAM), the festival that serves up the youngest, most contemporary soundtrack to the celebrations.

And, last but not least, fire is the protagonist in some of the outstanding moments in this essentially Mediterranean festivity. The main events include the International Fireworks Festival, a Correfoc fire-run that will fill the streets of the city centre with sparks and a Píromusical music and firework show that, this year, also marks the end of commemorations for the Tercentenary of the Events of 1714.

La Mercè looks forward to sharing with you both the past and future of the Catalan capital. Welcome to Barcelona!

LA MERCÈ IS TRADITION

Víbria, Tarasca, the Cavallets Cottoners hobby horses, dragons, giants, dwarfs... Come and meet Barcelona's festive bestiary and let them take you back in time to a place somewhere between history and boundless fantasy. Do you want to discover the most special part of the celebrations? Then hush, for the Eagle and Giants of the City are about to begin their dance.

MUSIC AT LA MERCÈ

Venues all around the city host the concerts for La Mercè. Each venue has its own speciality: here popular dance music, there world music, roots music or the latest sounds from the four corners of the Earth. Newsflash! This year, La Mercè presents a new venue, Mediterraniament, at Bogatell Beach (Platja de Bogatell).
